

Catullus 33

1. O fūrum optime balneāriōrum,
2. Vibennī pater et cynaede fīlī,
3. nam dextrā pater inquinātiōre,
4. cūlō fīlius est vorāciōre.

5. Cūr nōn exilium malāsque in ōrās
6. ītis, quandoquidem patris rapīnae
7. nōtae sunt populō et natīs pilōsās,
8. fīlī, nōn potes asse vēnditāre?

1. O best of the bathhouse thieves,
2. Vibennius the father, and the hustler son!
3. For the father's right hand is the more tainted,
4. the son's ass the more voracious!

5. Why not head into exile to the mean coast,
6. seeing that the plunders of the father
7. are well known, and the hairy butt,
8. son, cannot fetch a dollar?
